

Singer-Songwriters Lydia Adams Davis and Kathy Byers will present live Concerts on each day of The New Jersey Science and Engineering Festival 2010 Saturday, October 23rd 1:00-3:00 PM and Sunday, October 24th 10:00-11:00 at Clifton High School Media Center , 333 Colfax Avenue, Clifton, New Jersey.

Their highly interactive performance: One Earth So Green and Round engages audiences of all ages with ecology songs about recycling, animal habitats, global warming, conservation and environmental awareness.

Authentic, wild animal hand puppets join the performance with spontaneous quips and humorous story songs.

Highlighting their concert will be original reptile songs created for Bill Boesenberg's Snakes-N-Scales and Turtle Tales Company a featured exhibit at The Festival. Davis and Byers will release their new CD April, 2011.

Pete Seeger says, "Lydia Adams Davis is a very dear friend...a wonderful songwriter". Davis' original song: Lake Erie placed as a finalist in The Susquehanna Music and Arts Songwriting Contest.

Kathy Byers has won national awards for her children's recordings including a Parents' Choice Award, And Children's Music Web Award-Best Recording for Young Children.

The singer-songwriters appear at nature centers, libraries, festivals, cable television and school assemblies where they also present songwriting workshops.
